PRESS RELEASE

Introducing Advisense – uniting the strengths of FCG and Transcendent Group

Today, FCG and Transcendent Group are proud to announce the launch of our new, joint brand name – Advisense.

In August 2022, FCG and Transcendent Group joined forces with the target to build a market leading governance, risk and compliance powerhouse in Europe and the best workplace for GRC experts. We are now proud to present the next step on our joint journey – introducing Advisense as our new corporate brand.

“The name Advisense was designed to reflect the essence of what we bring to the market – advise and sensible solutions, helping our clients navigate a complex regulatory landscape and a challenging business environment”, says Kristian Bentzer, Group CEO at Advisense.

Our new and broader service offering ranges from risk management, cyber security, compliance, governance, financial crime prevention, sustainability and privacy to internal audit. We provide advisory services, managed services, and tech solutions including compliance software, advanced risk management systems and platforms for quantitative analytics.

Advisense will be used both as a brand name and a name for the legal entities of the group.

“As a first step today, the new brand name will be launched. During the autumn, a consolidation of group companies is being implemented, and in connection with the consolidation the legal name of the remaining entities will be changed to Advisense”, says Kristian Bentzer.

Three of our subsidiaries, Algorithmica, FCG Fonder and Grand Compliance, will continue their businesses under their current brands.
